

Peach Tree Gallery

In March 1995 Western Australian artist Jeremy Holton established Peach Tree Gallery the first Internet art gallery in Australia, <http://www.peachtreegallery.com>.

The web gallery contains images of over 700 of Jeremy's paintings, with free downloadable posters of many and exhibition catalogues. You can view a video of Jeremy's recent exhibition opening, join his mailing list and chat with Jeremy at the web site.

As well as the online gallery, Jeremy has a gallery adjacent to his studio in the Perth Hills at Mount Helena. The gallery shows a collection of Jeremy's paintings which continually change as he paints new works and paintings are moved to buyers, other galleries and exhibitions such as Jeremy's current exhibition at the Perth Concert Hall.

It is a place where you can see the full range of Jeremy's work from inexpensive prints, and small paintings up to the large pieces.

The range of subjects vary greatly:

- WA landscapes of Perth, Fremantle, Swan River and Swan Valley, the vineyards and beaches of the SW and the dramatic arid landscapes of the Pilbara and the Kimberley.
- Brilliant and exciting flower studies including Jeremy's much sought after poppy paintings
- Fantasy works such as the Fat Lady series, the Dancers and Lovers series.
- Erotic nudes including the banned "The Sweetest Smile" painting.

The paintings are usually full of colour, movement, pattern and innovation, which are characteristic of Jeremy's work. They are essentially painterly, accessible, and immediate, they are intended to be self revealing and to delight the eye.

They are often heavily textured and tactile so you want to touch the surface. Usually Jeremy works with many layers of glazes which give the painting a depth and complexity.

Some of them have deeper undercurrents of meaning and ambiguity which are open to many interpretations.

Collectors consistently report that even after many years Jeremy's paintings continue to give them pleasure and lift their spirits.

Before you visit, view Jeremy's works on the gallery web site <http://www.peachtreegallery.com> and if any of the paintings you would like to view are at another gallery we can arrange for the painting to be brought in to Peach Tree Gallery for you.

If the painting has already been sold we may be able to arrange a print for you or Jeremy may be able to do a painting in a similar style for you.

Jeremy is always happy to welcome and talk to visitors about his work, so don't hesitate to ask any questions you may have.

During open days just come along to see us and at other times give Jeremy a ring first to make sure he is available.

The gallery/studio is at 740 Dibble Street, Mount Helena, WA 6082
